Faculty	Carol Brockmon, LCSW, PCC, and Joseph Melnick, PhD, LCSW
Location	De Vere Theobalds Estate, Hertfordshire, United Kingdom

This workshop focuses on the radically simple yet powerful approach to intervening with clients and client systems: The Cape Cod Model®. It is designed as both an introduction for those unfamiliar with the model, and as further learning for those who have previous experience using this method of intervening

Throughout the workshop, we will focus on heightening your self-awareness as an intervener, and on the power your presence brings to your interventions with the client system. You will be taught to perceive the client system as a whole, regardless of its size, and to give structured feedback interventions in real-time client interactions. Participants also will be taught to see and articulate the competence of the client system—a critical element of the Cape Cod Model®.

For those unfamiliar with The Cape Cod Model®, there will be opportunity to practice new learning in a safe environment; participants already familiar with the model will benefit by sharpening their skills and deepening their understanding of the theory and principles that support it.

By learning to perceive the system as a whole and to provide brief bold, and direct feedback, all participants will increase their ability to create effective interventions necessary to support change and growth.

This introduction to the methods for high impact intervention provides an excellent foundation for the practice-based intensive Cape Cod Training Program.

Benefits

Participants will:

- Raise their awareness of their own presence and its impact on their interventions.
- Begin to perceive an individual, a couple or a group as a whole system.

- Have an opportunity for practice in a safe environment.
